THE SISTERS OF LORETTO

who have pioneered in Catholic education in Missouri from 1823 to the present and who, in 1915, founded Webster College, the first Catholic college for women in Missouri.

SEEDTIME Webster, 1915

Into the dark soil, overcast by rising winds of a world storm, the seedlings slept. Sunned by the promise of a warmer world of brotherhood and reaching for firmer hold, the green shoots grew.

The 1965 LAURETANUM commemorates the Golden Anniversary of Webster College. Catching the spirit of this jubilee, the staff has chosen a double theme of bounty and promise. Fifty years of growth have given the college a vibrant maturity. The 1965 LAURETANUM captures the legacy of Webster's community of learning—its vitality, enthusiasm, courage, and friendliness. The college is in motion, directed toward definite goals in its search for truth. With creativity and foresight the administrators, faculty, and students work harmoniously and imaginatively to prepare the soil for an even more plenteous harvest tomorrow. It is to Webster, to its fifty golden years and to its promising future that we have dedicated this book.
